The main theme of my work is about myself (selfportrait photography) and people who are part of my daily life. People who could inspire or intrigue me. I love exploring people's mind and body and making the connection between these two things. My work is real and spontaneous, although it's not yet defined. I walk and travel in my mind to achieve a more mature work.

I choose to work in black and white for my photography part, and with acrylic, pastel and charcoal for my paintings.
